

16-YEAR-OLD GIRL BARES WILD PLAN

Signed Up to Stay Wedded for 6 Months to See if She Liked It

WAS JUST CARRIED OFF

Her "Puppy Lover" Was so Convincing; Back in Calico, but She's Dreaming

Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.

LA FAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 3.—Mary Alice Morehouse, 16 and pretty, one of the principals in the La Fayette "puppy love" trial marriage which already has involved six school children in elopements and which is declared to involve others, told her own story of the affair.

Mary Alice has returned home to the farm; her "ideal romance" is shattered; "her man" has been sent away.

Among Those Involved.

Those already involved in the unusual burst of romance include: Leonard Johnston, 17, brother of Glenn Cunningham, 19, and Alice Morehouse, 16, arrested in a hotel in Bloomington, Ill.

Glenn Cunningham, 17, brother of Levan, and May Zuffall, 15, cousin of Alice Morehouse, arrested in St. Louis and will be brought back to La Fayette.

Leonard Johnston, 16, arrested in Kansas City, Mo., and Mabel Cartwright, 14, arrested in St. Louis with Glenn Cunningham and May Zuffall. It was reported today that seven other couples, believing La Fayette "too tame" were in the agreement to elope.

Mary Alice Tells.

Back home, her hair down and wearing a gingham apron, Mary Alice told the story of the triple romance in these words:

"Mary Francis Zuffall, who is my cousin, and I go to the Jefferson school together. We chummed with Glenn and Levan Cunningham, with Levan; Mary Francis with Glenn. We had decided to get married and so we started to Kansas City, where the boys had jobs waiting as clerks in a hotel. All four of us were to go but Glenn and Mary Francis backed out at the last minute. And so on until Tuesday about 2 o'clock Levan and I left for Bloomington. We thought we'd get married there and then go on to Kansas City.

"At first there was to be no one in the plan but the four of us. I don't know how Leonard Johnston and Mabel Cartwright joined in. We didn't know either of them very well. But I guess Glenn and Leonard were friends.

"Anyway, Mary Francis and Glenn evidently decided to risk it after all. We didn't expect to meet them in Bloomington at all. But we did rather think we'd see them in Kansas City."

Just Carried Her Away.

Mary's mother interrupted: "It must have been that Cunningham boy's impetuosity. It was, wasn't it, Mary Alice?"

"He just carried me away. I have only known him about a month," Mary replied.

Mrs. Morehouse sobbed hysterically: "I can't bear it; I can't bear it. Alice comforts her. She looks like a grave-faced baby."

"That's all there is to it," she said. "We signed the marriage contract that we'd live together for six months and then get a divorce if we wanted to, and then registered at the hotel in Bloomington. And now I'm back. Levan went to Kansas City from Bloomington. And if he makes good—"

And Mary Alice's eyes took a dreamy look and she seemed strangely grown up.

Pact Made Weeks Ago.

The remarkable pact, in which the couples were pledged to a "trial marriage," was made sometime ago, according to the girls. If this didn't pan out—well they'd just go back to school.

When on Wednesday morning it was found that six were missing, mothers and fathers began a frenzied search, and finally communicated with the police. Word was flashed to near-by towns to watch for the couples. The arrests resulted.

Several other couples, who agreed to the pact, backed down at the last minute, it was said.

It was reported that James Stingley, another school boy, was originally Mabel Cartwright's partner. His father, according to the story told here, went hunting for him Tuesday night, found him, and ordered him posthaste to bed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—Leonard Johnston, 17, being led by police here as one of the members of the La Fayette, Ind., high school love cult contends today that he is an innocent John Alden in the whole affair.

He also contends that his arrest and detention here have blasted his real romance and "ruined his whole life."

"I am engaged to the daughter of an eminent surgeon in La Fayette," he declared sadly today. "I never dreamed of marrying anyone but her. I merely agreed to escort my best friend's girl here and take care of her until he could come and

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lax, diddy care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like, 10c and 50c.—Advertisement.

Most of Minister's Sermon For Wedding of Ex-Kaiser Is Tribute to His Ex-Wife

Wilhelm Will Be Addressed as "Your Majesty" During the Ceremony, and His Bride, if She Doesn't Like the Service, Will Just Have to "Be Quiet and Swallow It"

By S. D. WEYER.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 3.—Just before Wilhelm Hohenzollern, former German emperor slips the gold wedding ring upon the finger of his bride-to-be, Princess Hermine, of Reuss, on Saturday he will hear from the lips of the old German court chaplain, Doctor Heinrich Vogel, some very pointed remarks regarding the late ex-kaiser who died in April, 1921.

These remarks may be anything but pleasant for the new bride to listen to. The correspondent is able to give the text of the marriage sermon which was prepared in advance by Reverend Doctor Vogel.

Almost one-third of the clergyman's wedding talk will be devoted to the memory of Augusta Victoria—former empress.

The sermon, it is understood, is divided into three parts based upon the fifth Corinthian, thirteenth chapter, thirteenth verse. The divisions deal first with faith, secondly with hope and thirdly with love.

The passage dealing with love is almost wholly devoted to remarks about the dead empress, whose simplicity and homely virtues won her the affection of all of her people. Part of the text of the sermon follows:

"A great, grave hour has come in which your majesty and you, I, the Lutheran princess, join hands for lifelong union."

"It is not only a legal contract—just concluded through civil ceremony, but it is also close to God—a blessed communion of the soul."

"Everything that you two feel in this sacred hour shall be blessed by the trinity of faith, hope and love."

The clergyman then pointed out that the Corinthian passage had been used at the golden wedding of Wilhelm's grandfather, then again at his own (Wilhelm's) first marriage, and finally at the ceremony of the betrothal of Prince Eitel Friedrich, one of the former kaiser's six sons.

"People come and go at this house in Doorn," continued the prelate. "Imperial children and faithful servants and friends come often, but they go again. Each time it is a painful parting, both for those going and for him who remains behind."

"But you, illustrious bride, propose at this hour to remain at his side. We are gathered here to pray that your remaining will be a blessing in every way."

Not much significance might be attached to this union if it were not for the fact that there is almost universal feeling among German people, especially among the women, that the remarriage of the former emperor—this time to a woman of 59 years his junior—stands in striking contrast with his lifelong emphasis upon the sanctity of the marriage union. Furthermore, his mourning for his first wife was more than a little ostentatious.

The correspondent asked Doctor Vogel whether he did not believe that emphasis upon the memory of the late kaiser would jar upon Princess Hermine's feelings. He replied:

"That is all right. She will have to keep quiet and swallow it."

The clergyman paused in thought then added: "Of course, I will have to consult the princess in advance. She probably will ask me to put in a few nice remarks about her dead husband to offset the tributes to the former kaiser."

In his sermon the clergyman will extol faith and love as the two greatest forces on earth and the corner stone for happy and successful marriages. The text of the address, as prepared, continues:

"Faith means union in marriage, other in the fullest trust. Such a union is the corner stone of marriage. Unfold legion of people daily seek communion based upon such a structure, but only those whose hearts are joined to God can attain it in the truest sense."

"Your majesty always has fostered such a union with God. Each morning you read a scripture lesson. Each Sunday you hold service."

"Hope is the second member of the trinity. It must be a true, living hope which anchors in God's fatherly heart. With such hope permeating the soul, life must suffer many disappointments, yet we still know that even the greatest of sorrows are sent by the Lord for a divine purpose."

"The angel of hope has ever hovered over your majesty; strengthened your heart and enabled you to bear the fate which would have driven most others into despair."

"Love is the chief divine power on earth. Speaking of love awakens memories of your majesty's departed wife—formerly Germany's kaiserin. Her grave will ever be an altar for the German people's grateful love."

As the years pass her picture will become more and more the ideal of Christian German womanhood."

"If such is the depth of feeling with which the German people mourn her loss, how much more must the heart-cried widow feel it?"

"What can fill that empty place? Who can give the loving understanding, solace, sunshine, love, in the somber life of a mourning widow? What is capable of healing royal pain? Love shall do it. So may God give you, illustrious princess, strength and have true love, according to Jesus' example—love which seeks not selfish ends, but strives to help comfort your mate. So help you God."

The princess is due to arrive in Doorn late today. Word was received from Berlin that she left Saarbrücken for Holland on Thursday.
